THE BREAD WE EAT.

An Interesting Sketch of the Process of Flour Making.

The Red Star Brand—The Enderby Mill Now in Full Blast.

The great flouring mill of Messrs. Rashdall & Lawes, Enderby, on the Spallumcheen river, is now in full blast and turning out a quality of flour pronounced by competent judges to be inferior to none of the best brands in the market and superior to a great many. In the interior the "red star" brand has taken a firm hold with the public. As its qualities become known it will be still greater appreciated. Several car loads are on the way to this city, where the red star will receive a severe test in competition with the Oregon, California and Manitoba brands. Should the flour turn out to be as represented by Messrs. Rashdall & Lawes there is no reason why the home market should not consume all that the mill can turn out. Every well-wisher of his country will devoutly pray that this may be so. Then we may expect to increase in material prosperity, for many hundreds of thousands of dollars passing out of the country to enrich a people not of our own kin will be kept within the province, enriching every one handling the circulating medium. We learn, however,

THAT TRANSPORTATION RATES

to the coast are not quite so satisfactory as they should be; that the rate charged from the point of shipment on the C P R at Shuswap Lake is the same as that charged from Winnipeg, some 1300 miles further east. If our information is correct this is a discrimination in rates which must be rectified, and doubtless will be by the managers of the company, when once their attention is directed to the matter. In the interest of the province and the

as well as affording increased traffic for the railway, it is quite certain an enlightened view will be taken of the subject and a schedule rate framed accordingly. Unless this is done, and that at once, Winnipeg, Oregon and California are likely to maintain their supremacy, in this market at least, for some time.

Already a detailed description of the machinery, the building and all its appurtenances has appeared in these columns, and believing that an account of the process of flour making would be of interest to our readers, especially those of them residing in this province, where such an industry as roller mills is an entirely new one, through the kindness of Mr. Lawes, who is a practical miller, we are enabled to do so to-day.

AN INTERESTING PROCESS.

The wheat, after being received from the farmer and weighed, passes into large garners for storage until such time as it is required for flouring purposes in the mill. From these garners it is conveyed automatically into the different wheat cleaning, separating and scouring machines, preparatory to passing into the mill proper. It is at this point that the work of flour making may be said to commence. The wheat coming from the wheat cleaners is taken by a conveyor a distance of about 90 feet, passing it into steam heaters. These heaters obtain their steam from the boiler house direct. The wheat is retained here sufficiently long to thoroughly heat it, driving the small amount of moisture contained in the berry to the outside, where it is absorbed by the bran; causing the latter to be somewhat toughened and less liable to break up in manufacture. From the heaters it passes down into the first break rolls. These rolls are grooved very coarsely, and are designed to simply crack the berry in two. The next operation is a very important one. The cracked grain is passed into a rolling reel designed to remove any dust made in the process of breaking. This dust, from the first break, is of a fair color to look at, but on being moistened turns black and materially deteriorates the quality of the flour, if mixed with it. From here the wheat passes to a second break roll, and is followed by bolts removing the fine particles, which, on the second break, becomes of much better quality. It is then followed by the third, fourth, fifth and sixth breaks, all of which produce broken particles of wheat or middlings of the finest quality. The final breaking of the wheat, or bran-cleaning, is done on the seventh and eighth break. These breaks, like the first, produce flour of fairly good quality to look at, but on being watered darkens in appearance and is unfit to be mixed with the other qualities. The bran, after passing the eighth break, is finally brushed, which causes it to yield up any remaining particles of flour that may remain attached to it, and is then passed to the feed hoppers.

THE BROKEN WHEAT AND MIDDLINGS from the 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 breaks, after being thoroughly freed from flour, is passed on to purifiers, each purifier being especially adapted to carry particular sizes and qualities of stock. These purifiers are the very perfection of automatic machines, handling the material in a perfectly marvelous manner. The regulation of the currents of air necessary to clear away all light particles of bran are entirely at the will of the operator. The cleaned middlings from these different machines pass at once to the different finely proved and smoothe rolls to be pounded into flour, and are afterwards bolted in the usual way over a series of thirteen bolting and four centrifugal reels. The tailings to the initiated are apparently wasted. The waste on the six purifiers consists of some portions of broken wheat mixed with the germ of the berry. These are passed out to a pair of smooth rolls in order to flatten out the germ, preparatory to separation and passing it for feed. The final result being perfectly clear flour and clear feeding stuff.

We have been quite unable in so short an article to describe all the different and complicated repetitions and complications necessary to carry on so delicate an operation as flour-making in a rolling mill to a successful issue. In order to carry this out there is a line of something like forty-five sets of elevators, besides conveyors and other devices. After the flour is packed it then has to be handled and shipped. This is done by a car, worked automatically, carrying its load up and down to the steamboat.

A PERFECT ESTABLISHMENT.

We have already called attention to the Wheelock engine used to drive this truly automatic establishment for flour-making. We feel more inclined to praise this beautiful engine than any other part of the establishment; its perfect motion and the ease with which it carrys its load and its small consumption of fuel is truly wonderful. In fact the engines and boilers, the building, and the plant are all as nearly perfect as such things can be made. The system of water works would do credit to a miniature city. The whole of the building can be flooded with water, it is estimated, in three minutes from sounding the alarm. In conversation with the manager of the concern, we learned that the mill has some 60,000 bushels of wheat in sight, and already have enquiries from Calgary to the coast, whilst the list of sales already made would surprise many old established houses of the volume of business already transacted.

Since the foregoing was in type we have been assured by Mr. D. E. Brown, Traffic Manager for the Pacific Division, that a specially low rate has been given to Messrs. Rashdall & Lawes to New Westminster and Vancouver. The rate with the C. P. N. Co., to Victoria has yet to be arranged. The C. P. R. have also agreed to carry grain from all points in the Northwest at an exceptionally low rate to the mill, equal to that now charged the millers of that country, but making no extra charge for breakage in the transit from points in the east to the coast.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

Smuggling by Indians—The Straits Cable—Quinchan Fisheries.

The Board of Trade held its quarterly meeting on Friday afternoon, Mr. R. Ward, president, in the chair.

A minute of council, prepared for transmission to the Dominion government, on trade intercourse with the United States, was confirmed.

President Ward explained the action of the board in regard to smuggling by Indians, stating that a committee had brought the matter to Collector Hanley's notice. After discussion the following resolution was adopted:

Moved by Mr. Rithet, seconded by Mr. Croasdaile, that the attention of the board of trade has been called to the systematic smuggling by Indians, who are yearly employed in various capacities in the neighboring territory of the United States during certain seasons of the year, which Indians are in the habit of investing their earnings in articles of merchandise of American manufacture liable to duty when imported into this province, by which the government are defrauded out of a large amount of revenue and the legitimate traders of their business. The board recommends that the attention of the federal government be immediately called to the matter through our members of parliament, and that they be requested to urge upon the government the necessity of taking immediate action to prevent the continuance of this illegitimate traffic, and further that some provision be made for preventing the landing of goods by Indians by publishing a notice that such goods will be seized, in order that during next month, when the Indians will be returning to their homes in British Columbia, the traffic may be prevented.

Communications were read: From the Fisheries Department, stating that the matter of Qolachan fishing by Alaska Indians in the Nass river would receive attention; and from the Department of Public Works in reference to the Straits cable. The meeting expressed dissatisfaction at the reply in the Catlin case, and the matter was referred to the council.

The President was requested to bring the matter of harbor improvements before the council and have a deputation appointed to wait upon Mr. Perley, who is now in the city.

To Expel the Anarchists—A Strange Find at Sea.

A PETROLEUM FLOOD.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Petroleum flowing from wells at Baku is inundating the town. It is impossible to store the oil.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

DUBLIN, Oct. 8.—At Ennis to-day the prisoners under examination for complicity in the murder of Constable Whelham were, on testimony of Callinan, the informer, committed for trial. The populace cheered the prisoners as they were led back to jail.

WORK OR BREAD.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—An immense crowd of poor, homeless and unemployed people to-day paraded in a body through the principal streets in the West End. They carried a black banner bearing in white letters the inscription: "We will have work or bread." Police accompanied the procession, which eventually returned to Trafalgar square, and with the followers they attracted had a meeting. They adopted a resolution to reassemble at the same place next Monday, and continue the parade daily until relief was afforded.

AMERICAN NEWS.

LARGE DEFALCATION.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—It is stated this morning that a large deficiency has been discovered in the Department of Public Works of Jersey City. The shortage is said to be a hundred thousand dollars.

A PECULIAR CATCH.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct 8.—The fishing schooner Peregryne White ran into a peculiar looking mass last night. For curiosity it was taken aboard. On arrival here it was taken to a chemist for analysis, who pronounced it ambergris of the finest quality. The find is worth $50,000.

THE CHINESE BANK.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—Wharton Baker said yesterday that no reply had yet been received to his letter to Secretary Bayard, asking whether he had been informed by the Chinese Government that negotiations with the syndicate were off. The promoters of the scheme are more confident than ever that the reported withdrawal of the Chinese Government has not taken place, and that the government has gone too far to back out.

ANOTHER NAVAL BLUNDER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The statement is made to-day that serious defects have been discovered in the machinery of the new steel cruiser Chicago, which now lies in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and two weeks at least will be required to put the big vessel in proper shape for her trial trip at sea. It is said that there was a miscalculation made when her machinery was put in, and that two weeks will be consumed in rectifying the mistake.

A TEST CASE.

The case of the Sierra, one of the schooners seized in Alaska last year and owned in San Francisco comes up for trial in the admiralty court in Boston next month. This is the case in which all owners of sealing vessels have combined to make a test. The most eminent counsel have been engaged, and the whole subject of exclusion from Alaskan waters has been considered and the rights of sealers defined. The case is regarded as a most important one.

ANARCHISTS IN K. OF L.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 8.—The portion of Powderly's address delivered before the Knight's of Labor declaring that anarchists in the order had plotted its destruction, and that he has proofs he will present to them, and that every avowed anarchist should be compelled to withdraw or be expelled, has created a sensation. There is a general sentiment that the matter should be sifted to the bottom.

A NEW ALASKA CO.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—The Alaska Development Company has incorporated to conduct a trading, fishing and mining business in Alaska. The capital stock is $250,000 in 25,000 shares. The directors are H. J. Barring, George W. Leobr, James Madison, J. Nesmith and James Eva.

YELLOW FEVER IN FLORIDA.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Surgeon-General Hamilton this morning received a telegram from Dr. Wall, at Tampa, Fla., saying there had been four deaths from yellow fever and about twenty cases. Many people have fled. It may be necessary to establish a camp of refuge in the country. A telegram was also received from Sanford, Fla., signed Dr. Wylly, president of the State Health and Protection Association, requesting a loan of tents for refugees from the epidemic at Tampa. Dr. Hamilton ordered the tents sent.

THE PROGRESS PUNISHED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—Ollie Hutchins, the procuress, was sentenced to-day to six months' imprisonment in the house of correction, and to pay a fine of $500 with the alternative of five hundred days additional imprisonment at the expiration of the first sentence, if the fine is not paid. The woman was sentenced to six months' imprisonment on a similar charge a week ago.

CLEVELAND GOES A FISHING.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 8.—The President and his companions went fishing to-day in Lake Mendota. The steam launch conveyed them to an island in the lake, where they went to the fishing grounds in small boats. The only public event on the programme is a reception this evening.

CAPTURED AND SENTENCED.

ED. PASO, Texas, Oct. 8.—Jim Burnett, engineer of the passenger train on the Mexican Central railway, which accidently killed a Mexican shepherd a year ago, who crossed the river recently was arrested and taken to Chihuahua and there tried and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in a Mexican jail.

ANARCHISTS SYMPATHISE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—A cablegram from London says: The Anarchists here held meetings last night and passed resolutions of sympathy with their ill-fated Chicago brothers. A protest against their execution was also passed.

THE TELEGRAPH DEAL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Speaking of the telegraph consolidation to-day Jay Gould denied he had any interest or present of buying any other opposition lines or advancing cable rates. He said: "I don't think we could get along without some opposition. The Mackay lines were for sale a short ago, but I do not know whether they are now or not." Vice-President Decastro, of the Commercial Cable Co., denied the Wall street rumors that Mackay was anxious to sell his telegraph and cable interests. The stories are absurd, he said. Mr. Mackay has made no effort to sell and is not going to sell. A prominent Western Union director said yesterday in regard to the B. & O. purchase: This is the cheapest purchase of telegraph property ever made in this country. The cost of the entire system stands it seven million dollars on the railroad company's books. There is no trade, gentlemen, said Robert Garrett, to a small party of friends at the Hoffman House last evening. Garrett looked and spoke as if he was very much in earnest. He impressed his hearers that Gould might experience a good deal of trouble before he could legally claim the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph Co. as his own.

POWDERLY'S ADDRESS.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 7.—The annual address of General Master Workman Powderly, which was presented to the general assembly yesterday afternoon, has caused a decided commotion among some of the factions. Opinions expressed concerning the address are as varied as they are irreconcilable. Supporters of Powderly are enthusiastic in praise although some of them quietly admit there is a mistiness of meaning about his references to anarchists, and too much of an inclination to temporize, is apparent in his inferential suggestion that only men positively convicted of immediate action of murder, should be hanged. But while his friends are on the whole satisfied with the document, it furnishes abundant material for his opponents to make music. Utterances in relation to anarchy and order are received with general favor, although they will not deter friends of the condemned men from making vigorous efforts in their behalf. He declares he has proofs that he will present to them, and that every avowed anarchist should be compelled to withdraw or be expelled, has created a sensation. There is a general sentiment that the matter should be sifted to the bottom.

WHAT IS AN ALLEGORY?

To the Editor of The Times:

Once upon a time there was a prince who ruled over two provinces though a parliament consisting of six members.

He presided over one of the provinces in person, the other was placed under a deputy ruler.

In the course of time, the deputy wishing to be prince himself, led his minions in open rebellion against their lawful prince, but the cool and calm demeanor of the prince, when he confronted them, completely damped their courage and not a blow was struck.

A friendly chief (one of whose servants was lawfully punished for a misdemeanor committed when under the jurisdiction of the prince) was induced by the deputy and some members of the parliament to believe that his servant had been brutally treated, and he in consequence demanded instant satisfaction in the old style of an eye for an eye, &c., that not being admissable he afterwards made war, but was utterly routed, finding that his instruments were not to be depended upon.

Then the prince put a sword into the hand of the parliament and said, "Do your duty, slay and spare not," but the parliament, in secret session assembled, decided not to use the sword.

Then the Prince said, "Wherefore have ye not done your duty and slain the rebel?"

Then the Premier said: "He owes me money and so I could not."

President Board of Health said: "He owes me money so I could not."

Minister of Finance said: "Well, I suppose I must do as the others do, so I could not."

Another said: "You have too much power now, and so I could not."

Another said: "We must vindicate our honor and dignity, and so I could not."

Another said: "Although I cannot approve of the acts of the deputy yet you are becoming too powerful."

Thereupon the Prince loaded an 84-pounder, pounted it at the rebel and again said to the Parliament: "Do your duty and do not let me hear any more of such excuses or you will be impeached. Fire off the gun though it bring destruction to the rebel, and at the same time in order to give them additional courage he cracked the whip of public opinion over their heads and let the end of it fall on the shoulders of the President of the Board of Health."

The scene was changed. The Prince sits calmly on the throne of truth, justice and right, and awaits the boom of the gun that portends the overthrow of the rebel. ÆSOP.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

Sir John has declined to attend the inter-provincial conference.

Mr. Perry, Liberal M.P. for Prince, P.E.I., has been sustained in his seat by the Election Court.

After the close of the proceedings in the Haldimand election case, a consultation of counsel took place and it was agreed to drop the proceedings and have a new election.

Hon. E. Blake intends to go to Europe, sailing on Wednesday next. His length of stay is uncertain, but probably he will visit Italy and other parts of southern Europe before returning.

La Minerve, Sir Hector Langevin's organ and an excellent authority, says: We hold upon good authority that Sir John Macdonald has not yet agreed to be one of the Fishey Commissioners.

Mr. David Skerving, teller of the Bank of British North America, London, Ont., died at his residence in that city on the 29th ult., of diphtheria. Mr. Skerving had been in the employ of the bank for 20 years.

It is computed that the death rate of the world is 67 a minute and the birth rate 70 a minute, and this seemingly light percentage of gain is sufficient to give a net increase of population each year of almost 1,200,000 souls.

Mrs. Van Zandt, mother of Nina Van Zandt, the proxy bride of August Spies, is said to feel certain that if Spies is hanged her daughter will become insane. Most people will concede that she will not have to make any great effort.

The Galt Reporter announces that Mr. Thomas Cowan, of that town, has been appointed postmaster for the Birmingham of Canada. Tom is a renegade Grit and one of the most zealots of political proselytes. For his missionary labors Tom has at last received his "fairing."

Says the Minneapolis Journal: We don't care for political union with Canada. Commercial union would make both countries richer, would remove an appreciable burden of taxes from the people, thus lessening the puzzling surplus in the national treasury, and would do away with foolish irritations that may result in war.

First England's interests are to be taken into account by the Fishery Commission; then the international considerations; then the political exigencies which find their centre in Mr. Joseph Chamberlain; then the titular ambitions of Sir John or Sir Charles; and last and least, Canada's Rights in Canada's Fisheries.

If it is true, as reported, that Mr. Norquay was offered 100½ for the Manitoba bonds before he started for New York, an indignant people ought to know why he loafed away a month in New York, and thus hindered the completion of the Red River Valley Railway in time to help move this year's crop. Treachery cannot be tolerated by a people determined to have their rights.

A leading contemporary sagely observes that if there is anything rather than another in this world which people are slow to desert it is a good newspaper. So long as it in the slightest or weakest degree deserves support, it is apt to receive it. The work of building up a newspaper in the affections of the people is a slow and weary one; but once established only gross neglect brings it down. The more intelligent and progressive people are, the faster they will come to the conclusion that a poorly conducted paper does not deserve public charity any more than any other poorly conducted private business.

In Nova Scotia corruption during the late Dominion contest seems to have taken a strong hold on the people. Already three Conservatives and one Liberal have been proved to owe their election to corrupt practices. Two of these are Cabinet ministers who have lost their seats through bribery by agents, and the uncharitable declare that whole counties were bought by promises of railway grants. It is a pity constituencies cannot be disfranchised for accepting bribes as well as members disqualified for giving them. It is sad to see that boodle has become a great motive power in the politics of this Dominion.

In concluding a lengthy and well considered article on unrestricted commercial relations with the United States, the Halifax Chronicle in a late issue says: "Political relations have nothing to do with the investment of capital by the citizens of one country in another, if the two countries are friendly, and that friendship is of a permanent character. There is more British capital invested in the United States in proportion to her size than there is in Canada. Down with the tariff walls, and eastern American capital will be invested in Canada as it is now daily going to develop the far west. Take the swaddling bands off young Canada and let her enter the races free. It is then she will develop and give a good account of herself."

THE NEW SOUTH.

The American Manufacturers' Record of last week publishes a quarterly statement of the South's industrial progress. It gives a list of the new enterprises organized during the nine months of the present year, which have already elapsed. From the return published we learn that the growth of industial interests in the South during that time surpass anything ever before known. From Jan. 1 to Sept. 30 there were 2,594 new manufacturing and mining enterprises reported against 1,175 for the corresponding time of 1886, covering almost the whole range of human industry. The capital invested during the first three quarters of 1887 was $212,455,000 against $83,834,200 in the first nine months of 1886. The Record sums up the South's growth since 1879 and shows that there has been an increase of 15,000 new industries, 15,000 miles of railroad, costing with improvements to old roads over $600,000,000, and an increase of $1,000,000 in assessed value of property, while the iron production has increased from 397,000 tons to 876,000 tons. The amount of coal mined has grown from 6,000,000 tons in 1880 to nearly 14,000,000 tons. Cotton mills have increased from 180 to 370, and cotton seed oil mills from 40 to 150. During this period the cotton crop alone has sold for $2,500,000,000, an average of $300,000,000 a year, while the total value of southern agricultural products has been $700,000,000 a year.

DECLINES FACING HIM.

Mr. HENRY GEORGE has full faith in the righteousness of his cause and the principles he is so ardently advocating. Amongst his many adversaries in the present triangular contest in New York is Governor HILL, who, on a recent occasion, like many of the other apologists for the present system of taxation, gave an explanation of Mr. GEORGE's views which facts did not warrant. In order to prevent further misunderstanding, Mr. GEORGE recently challenged the Governor to travel through the states and jointly discuss the question of taxation. This was the method adopted by the lamented President LINCOLN and his great adversary STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS, the leader of the Democratic party in the famous Illinois campaign, and which brought these great statesmen into continental prominence. At that period in the history of the American nation the majority of politicians were afraid to grapple with the slavery question, and DOUGLAS was one of them. LINCOLN, however, saw more clearly what was approaching, and he boldly assumed the position that slavery was a great wrong that should not be tolerated in a free country. It is needless to say that LINCOLN whipped his opponent in the argument at every point, and though he was not successful in defeating him in the first bout, he sowed the seeds that brought about the emancipation of the slaves, and removed from the arena of politics what must have continued to be a greater stumbling block to the progress of the republic, and perhaps have resulted in its wreck. It did not take many years to defeat DOUGLAS and the principles enunciated by him, but it is hard to say if the work could have been done as quickly if the joint debates, which became the talk of the country, had not thoroughly exposed the weakness of the cause which he advocated. HENRY GEORGE holds that under the present system of taxation slavery exists that is not very far removed from that which LINCOLN abolished—slavery to monopolists—which is highly injurious to the large majority of the people. He stands committed to a reform that would abolish monopolies in the soil or the products of the earth, and he is prepared to fight the battle of this reform with the Governor of New York in public, permitting him to champion the present system, leaving the people to be the judges. The Governor declines. He has plenty of time to speak in public, but it must be when there is no one ready to combat his contentions. No doubt Governor HILL has lively recollections of the fate which befell STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS, and does not desire a similar downfall.

COMMERCIAL UNION.

Scarcely a farmer is to be found, who has given the subject any consideration, but has expressed himself strongly in favor of unrestricted reciprocity. This is not confined to any one political party or creed, for all intelligent and advanced agriculturists approve the principle. As a class the farmers are as loyal to Canada and British connection as it is possible to be. They are not, however, carried away with the senseless and foolish cry that reciprocity would gradually draw us away from the mother-land and ultimately lead to annexation. Were such to be the result, many now in favor of reciprocity would halt before committing themselves to such a policy. But they knew from the experience of the past, with partial reciprocity, that no such feelings were engendered or encouraged, and they now believe that with the larger proposed scheme Canadians can retain all their loyalty to Britain and all their feelings of nationality which they now cherish. Amongst the many intelligent agriculturists who have expressed their views is Mr. JOHN DRYDEN, M. P. P. for South Ontario, a gentleman well known as a leading breeder of thoroughbred stock. He is not a man to be led away by any fanciful scheme, and when he expresses an opinion on any question he knows well whereof he speaks. We commend his remarks to our farmer readers in this province. This is what he says:

"It is not a party question with the farmers, I am glad to say; it is a question of great public policy, and the farmers look at it in that way. And let me tell you that all other industries are of small account in this country alongside the farming industry. Let this be prosperous, and all others are bound to do likewise. The wealth that comes out of the ground is the source of all real prosperity, and when the farmers are well off manufacturers and commerce have nothing to fear. Being asked how freer access to the United States markets would effect the live stock trade and the wool market, Mr. Dryden said he had no doubt that both would be greatly benefited by it. An incident or two will make this clear, he went on to say. Last week I had a call from two American farmers, one from Pennsylvania and the other from Michigan. Both have large flocks of Shropshire grades, but the Pennsylvania farmer raises sheep for meat and the Michigan farmer for wool. Now, how do you suppose their prices compare with ours? We sell lambs dropped in March for $3 to $3.50, and the Pennsylvanian assured me that he got $6 to $6.50 for them. I sold the clip of my pure-bred Shrops this year for fifteen cents a pound, unwashed, and the Michigan farmer told me that the clip of his flock of Shrop grades, unwashed, sold for thirty-five cents. Now, this medium wool is just the kind wanted in the United States markets, and large quantities of it are imported every year. Open to us the American markets and the revenue of the Canadian farmer from wool as well as from mutton will be enormously increased. I say this because no other portion of the American continent is so well suited for sheep raising as this Ontario of ours."

NEWS OF THE WORLD.

The News by Wire and Mail in Brief Paragraphs.

Ogden Calder & Co., bankers of Troy, N. Y., have assigned; liabilities are upward of $200,000.

A large part of Chinatown in Folsom, Cal., was burned Friday morning. Heavy loss.

Wm. Guttenberg's foundry, Sacramento, has been destroyed by fire; loss, $20,000.

At Mosler, Ohio, a man named Roth, who stabbed his wife to death when entering an assignation house with a young merchant, has been convicted of murder in the first degree.

At Philadelphia on Friday C. W. V. Clarke, walked a mile in 7 m. and 18 sec.: W. E. Page made a running high jump of 6 ft. 4 in.; and Tom Ray vaulted 11 ft. 4 in.

David Ogletree, wife and two children were poisoned at their home near Talladega, Alabama, on the 7th by drinking whiskey in which strychnine had been placed by Mrs. Ogletree. They are all dead.

Demartigney, governor inspector of prisons and asylums, has just returned from Labrador, where it is decided to establish a reformatory for girls at Point Esquimaux. He reports that great distress would exist in Labrador were it not for the officers of the Hudson Bay Company, who do all in their power to alleviate destitution. The loss of life has been terrible.

A startling tale of human depravity has just come to light in Toledo, Ohio. A house located in a block bounded by Michigan, Ontario, Locust and La Grand streets, was vacated and a new tenant moved into the dwelling. The cistern, which was located above ground and facing an alley, was noticed to emit a horrible smell. An investigation and cleaning of the cistern revealed the bodies of thirteen infants. The house was formerly occupied by a midwife, who was at once arrested.

Supreme Court Procedure.

A proclamation appears in last week's Canada Gazette, bringing into force on and after the 1st inst., the first and second sections of the "Act to amend the law respecting procedure in criminal cases." The effect of the clauses is to allow an application to the Supreme Court of Canada in criminal matters in certain cases, to declare that the judgment of that court shall be final and conclusive in all cases, and that notwithstanding any Royal prerogative or anything contained in the Interpretation Act or in the Supreme or Exchequer Courts Acts, there shall be no appeal in any criminal case from any judgment of a Canadian court to any court of appeal in England. The appeal to the Supreme Court obtains in the case of any person convicted of any indictable offence, or whose conviction has been affirmed before any Supreme Court having criminal jurisdiction, or any court of last resort, unless the court affirming the conviction should be unanimous, in which case no appeal is allowed. Notice of the appeal must be given to the Attorney-General of the province within fifteen days of the affirmance of that conviction, and the appeal must be brought on for hearing at the session of the Supreme Court being held at the time of such affirmance, or at the next session of the Supreme Court, if not in session when the affirmance takes place.

What Am I To Do.

The symptoms of Biliousness are unhappily too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A Bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events.

The digestive system is wholly out of order and Diarrhoea or Constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatulence and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Green's August Flower, it costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy. *

A Liberal Giver.

The late Hon. William McMaster was a generous contributor to the funds of the Baptist Church, of which he was a member. Not long since he gave $12,000 to the Woodstock Institute. He founded the McMaster Hall, Toronto, giving it the handsome sum of $100,000, besides endowment chairs at an annual cost of $14,500. Towards building the beautiful Jarvis street Baptist Church, Toronto, he contributed $60,000. To the Upper Canada Bible Society he was its treasurer and heaviest contributor for many years. A couple of years since he gave $100,000 towards changing the Woodstock Institute into a university, provided that town contributed $400,000, which was done, and the scheme is now under completion.

The Mounted Police.

There is great activity at present at the different Mounted Police stations in the Northwest, repairing, enlarging and putting up new buildings. The new barracks at Regina and Prince Albert are practically finished and will shortly be occupied. Tenders for new barracks and a hospital at Calgary have been called for by the Public Works Department and will be opened on the 4th of October, and tenders for new barracks at Banff Hot Springs will be received up to the 11th proximo, and the buildings and a number of other places are being altered and improved.

AYER'S Sugar-Coated Cathartic PILLS.

If the Liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightney, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them, with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism and Dyspepsia.—G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Downsville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome humor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this eruption, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and distressing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the sores on my body commenced healing, and, in less than one month, I was cured.—Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Darden, Darden, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became any worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored.—Theodore Esling, Richmond, Va. ††

"Then the man's heart was heavy, and he knew that his path was evil; and he put aside the tempting woman, and ceased to make war on his brother, and lived at peace in the same kraal with him. And after a time the woman came to him, and said, 'I have lost the past, I will be thy wife.' And in his heart he knew that it was a lie, and that she thought the evil thing, yet because of his love did he take her to wife.

"And the very night that they were wed, when the man was plunged into a deep sleep, did the woman arise and take his ax from his hand, and creep into the hut of his brother and slay him in his rest. Then did she slink back like a gorged lioness, and place the thong of the red ax back upon his wrist and go her ways.

"And at the dawning the people came shouting, 'Lousta is slain in the night!' and they came unto the hut of the man, and there he lay asleep, and by him was the red ax. Then did they remember the war, and say, 'Lo! he hath of a surety slain his brother,' and they would have taken and killed him, but he rose and fled swiftly, and as he fleeted by he slew the woman.

"But death could not wipe out the evil she had done, and on him rested the weight of all her sin. Therefore is he an outcast, and his name a scorn among his own people; for on him, and him only, resteth the burden of her who betrayed. And therefore does he wander afar, without a kraal, and without an ox or a wife, and therefore will he die afar like a stricken buck, and his name be accursed from generation to generation, in that the people say that he slew his brother, Lousta, by treachery in the night time."

The old Zulu paused, and I saw that he was deeply agitated by his own story. Presently he lifted his head, which he had bowed to his breast, and went on:

"I was that man, Bougwan. Ou! I was that man; and now hark thou! Even as I am, so wilt thou be—a tool, a plaything, an ox of burden to carry the evil deeds of another. Listen! When thou didst creep after the 'Lady of the Night' I was hard upon thy track. When she struck thee with the knife in the sleeping place of the White Queen I was there also. When thou didst let her slip away like a snake in the stones I saw thee; and I knew that she had bewitched thee, and that a true man had abandoned the truth, and he who aforetime loved a straight path had taken a crooked way. Forgive me, my father, if my words are sharp, but out of a full heart are they spoken. See her no more, so shalt thou go down with honor to the grave. Else because of the beauty of a woman that weareth as a garment of fur shalt thou be even as I am, and perchance with more cause. I have said."

Throughout this long and eloquent address Good had been perfectly silent, but when the tale began to shape itself so aptly to his own case he colored up, and when he had learned that what had passed between him and Sorais had been overseen he was evidently much distressed. And now, when at last he spoke, it was in a tone of humility quite foreign to him.

"I must say," he said with a bitter little laugh, "that I scarcely thought that I should live to be taught my duty by a Zulu, but it just shows what we can come to. I wonder if you fellows can understand how humiliated I feel; and the bitterest part of it is that I deserve it all. Of course I should have handed her over to the guard, but I could not, and that is a fact. I let her go and I promised to say nothing, more is the shame to me. She told me that if I would side with her she would marry me and make me king of this country; but, thank goodness, I did find the heart to say that even to marry her I could not desert my friends. And now you can do what you like; I deserve it all. All I have to say is that I hope you may never love a woman with all your heart and then be so sorely tempted of her," and he turned to go.

"Look here, old fellow," said Sir Henry, "just stop a minute; I have a little tale to tell you, too." And he proceeded to narrate what had taken place the previous day between Sorais and himself.

This was a finishing stroke to poor Good. It is not pleasant to any man to be made a tool of, but when the circumstances are as peculiarly atrocious as in the present case it is about as bitter a pill as anybody can be called upon to swallow.

"Do you know," he said, "I think that between you you fellows have about worked a cure," and he turned and walked away; and I for one felt very sorry for him. Ah, if the moths would always carefully avoid the candle, how few burnt wings there would be!

That day was a court day, when the queens sat in the great hall and received petitions, discussed laws, etc., and thither we adjourned shortly afterwards. On our way we were joined by Good, who was looking exceedingly depressed, and no wonder.

When we got into the hall Nyleptha was already on her throne, and proceeding with business as usual, surrounded by councilors, courtiers, lawyers, priests, and an unusually strong guard. It was, however, easy to see from the air of excitement and expectation on the faces of everybody present that nobody was paying much attention to ordinary affairs, the fact being that the knowledge that civil war was imminent had now got abroad. We saluted Nyleptha and took our accustomed places, and for a little while things went on as usual, when suddenly the trumpets began to call outside the palace, and from the great crowd that was gathered there in anticipation of some unusual event there rose a roar of "Sorais! Sorais!"

Then came the roll of many chariot wheels, and presently the great curtains at the end of the hall were drawn wide, and through them entered the "Lady of the Night" herself. Nor did she come alone. Preceding her was Agon, the high priest, arrayed in his most gorgeous vestments, and on either side were other priests. The reason for their presence was obvious—coming with them it would have been sacrilege to attempt to detain her. Behind her were a number of the great lords, and behind them a small body of picked guards. A glance at Sorais herself was enough to show that her mission was of no peaceful kind, for in place of her gold embroidered "kaf" she wore a shining tunic formed of golden scales, and on her head a little golden helmet. In her hand, too, she bore a toy spear, beautifully made and fashioned of solid silver. Up the hall she came, looking like a lioness in her conscious pride and beauty, and as she approached the spectators fell back bowing and made a path for her. By the sacred stone she halted, and laying her hand on it, she cried out with a loud voice to Nyleptha on the throne, "Hail, O queen!"

"All hail, my sister!" answered Nyleptha. "Draw thou near. Fear not, I give thee safe conduct."

Sorais answered with a haughty look, and swept on up the hall till she stood right before the thrones.

"A boon, O queen!" she cried again.

"Speak on, my sister; what is there I can give thee who hath half our kingdom?"

"Thou canst tell me a true word—me and the people of Zu-Vendis. Art thou, or art thou not, about to take this foreign wolf," and she pointed to Sir Henry with her toy spear, "to be a husband to thee and share thy bed and throne?"

Curtis winced at this, and turning towards Sorais, said to her in a low voice, "Methinks that yesterday thou hadst other names than wolf to call me by, O queen!" and I saw her bite her lips as, like a danger flag, the blood flamed red upon her face. As for Nyleptha, who is nothing if not original, she, seeing that the thing was out, and that there was nothing further to be gained by concealment, answered the question in a novel and effectual manner, inspired thereto, as I firmly believe, by coquetry and a desire to triumph over her rival.

Up she rose, and descending from the throne swept in all the glory of her royal grace on to where her lover stood. There she stopped and untwined the golden snake that was wound around her arm. Then she bade him kneel, and he dropped on one knee on the marble before her; and next, taking the golden snake with both her hands, she bent the pure soft metal round his neck, and when it was fast deliberately kissed him on the brow and called him her "dear lord."

"Thou seest," she said, when the excited murmur of the spectators had died away, addressing her sister as Sir Henry rose to his feet, "I have put my collar round the 'wolf's neck,' and behold! he shall be my watch dog, and that is my answer to thee, Sorais, my sister, and to those with thee. Fear not," she went on, smiling sweetly on her lover, and pointing to the golden snake she had twined round his massive throat. "If my yoke be heavy, yet is it of pure gold, and it shall not gall thee."

Then, turning to the audience, she continued, in a clear proud tone: "Ay, Lady of the Night, lords, priests, and people here gathered together, by this sign do I take the foreigner to husband, even here in the face of ye all. What, am I a queen, and yet not free to choose the man whom I will love? Then should I be lower than the meanest girl in all my provinces. Nay, he hath won my heart, and with it goes my hand and throne and all I have—ay, had he been a beggar instead of a great lord, fairer and stronger than any here, and having more wisdom and knowledge of strange things, I had given him all; how much more so, then, being what he is!" And she took his hand and gazed proudly on him, and holding it, stood there boldly facing the people. And such was her sweetness and the power and dignity of her person, and so beautiful she looked standing hand in hand there at her lover's side, so sure of him and of herself, and so ready to risk all things and endure all things for him, that most of those who saw the sight, which I am sure no one of them will ever forget, caught the fire from her eyes and the happy color from her blushing face, and cheered her like wild things. It was a bold stroke for her to make, and it appealed to the imagination; but human nature in Zu-Vendis, as elsewhere, loves that which is bold and not afraid to break a rule, and is moreover peculiarly susceptible to appeals to its poetical side.

And so the people cheered till the roof rang; but "Sorais of the Night" stood there with downcast eyes, for she could not bear to see her sister's triumph, which robbed her of the man whom she had hoped to win; and in the awfulness of her jealous anger she trembled and turned white like an aspen in the wind. I think I have said somewhere of her that she reminded me of the sea on a calm day, having the same aspect of sleeping power about her. Well, it was all awake now, and, like the face of the furious ocean, it awed and yet fascinated me. A really handsome woman in a royal rage is always a beautiful sight, but such beauty and such a rage I never saw combined before; and I can only say that the effect produced was well worthy of the two.

She lifted her white face, the teeth were set, and there were purple rings beneath her glowing eyes. Thrice she tried to speak, and thrice she failed, but at last her voice came. Raising her silver spear, she shook it, and the light glanced from it and from the golden scales of her cuirass.

"And thinkest thou, Nyleptha," she said, in notes which pealed through the great hall like a clarion—"thinkest thou that I, a queen of the Zu-Vendi, will brook that this base outlander shall sit upon my father's throne, and rear up half breeds to fill the place of the great house of the Stairway? Never! never! while there is life in my bosom and a man to follow me and a spear to strike with. Who is on my side!—who!

And stood there boldly facing the people.

"Now hand thou over this foreign wolf, and those who come to prey here with him, to the doom of fire, for have they not committed the deadly sin against the Sun? or, Nyleptha, I give thee war—red war! Ay, I say to thee that the path of thy passion shall be marked out by the blazing of thy towns, and watered with the blood of those who cleave to thee. On thy head rest the burden of the deed, and in thy ears ring the groans of the dying and the cries of the widows and those who are left fatherless forever and forever.

"I tell thee I will tear thee, Nyleptha, the White Queen, from thy throne, and thou shalt be hurled—ay, hurled, even from the topmost stair of the great way to the foot thereof, in that thou hast covered the name of the house of him who built it with black shame. And I tell ye, strangers, all save thou, Bougwan, whom because thou didst me a service I will save alive if thou wilt leave these men and follow me" (here poor Good shook his head vigorously, and ejaculated, "Can't be done," in English), "that I will wrap you in sheets of gold and hang you yet alive in chains from the four golden trumpets of the four angels that fly east and west, and north and south from the giddiest pinnacles of the temple, so that ye may be a token and a warning to the land. And as for thee, Incubu, thou shalt die in yet another fashion that I will not tell thee now."

She ceased, panting for breath, for her passion shook her like a storm, and a murmur, partly of horror and partly of admiration, ran through the hall. Then Nyleptha answered calmly and with dignity.

"Ill would it become my place and dignity, O sister, so to speak as thou hast spoken, and so to threat as thou hast threatened. Yet if thou wilt make war, then will I strive to bear up against thee; for if my hand seem soft, yet shalt thou find it of iron when its grips thine armies by the throat. Sorais, I fear thee not. I weep for that which thou wilt bring upon our people and thyself, but for myself I say—I fear thee not. Yet thou, who but yesterday didst strive to win my lover and my lord from me, whom today thou dost call a 'foreign wolf,' to be thy lover and thy lord" (here there was an immense sensation in the hall), "thou who but last night, as I have learned but since thou didst enter here, didst creep like a snake into my sleeping place—ay, even by a secret way, and wouldst have foully murdered me, thy sister, as I lay asleep"—

"It is false! it is false!" rang out Agon's and a score of other voices.

"It is not false," said I, producing the broken point of the dagger and holding it up. "Where is the haft from which this flew, Sorais?"

"It is not false," cried Good, determined at last to act like a loyal man. "I took her by the queen's bed, and on my breast the dagger broke."

"Who is on my side?" cried Sorais, shaking her silver spear, for she saw that public sympathy was turning against her. "What, Bougwan, thou consent not?" she said, addressing Good, who was standing close to her, in a low, concentrated voice. "Thou pale souled fool! for a reward thou shalt eat out my heart with love of me and not be satisfied, and thou mightest have been my husband and king! At least I hold thee in chains that cannot be broken.

"War! war! war!" she cried. "Here with my hand upon the sacred stone that shall endure, so runs the prophecy, till the Zu-Vendi set their necks beneath the alien yoke, I declare war to the end. Who follows Sorais of the Night to victory and honor?"

Instantly the whole concourse began to break up in indescribable confusion. Many present hastened to throw in their lot with "The Lady of the Night," but some came from her following to us. Among the former was an under officer of Nyleptha's own guard, who suddenly turned and made a run for the doorway through which Sorais' people were already passing. Umslopogaas, who was present and had taken the whole scene in, seeing with admirable presence of mind that if the soldier got away others would follow his example, seized the man, who drew his sword and struck at him. Thereupon the Zulu sprang back with a shout, and avoiding the sword cuts began to peck at his foe with his terrible ax, till in a few seconds the man's fate overtook him, and he fell with a clash heavily and quite dead upon the marble floor.

This was the first blood spilled in the war.

"Shut the gates!" I shouted, thinking that we might perhaps catch Sorais so. But the order came too late, her guards were already passing through them, and in another minute the streets echoed with the furious galloping of horses and the rolling of chariots.

So, drawing half the people after her, Sorais was soon passing like a whirlwind through the Frowning City on her road to her headquarters at M'Arstuna, a fortress situated 130 miles to the north of Milosis.

And after that the city was alive with the endless tramp of regiments and the preparations for war, and old Umslopogaas once more began to sit in the sunshine and go through a show of sharpening Inkosi-kaas' razor edge.

Says the Columbian: If the freight receipts and shipments over the Canadian Pacific railway, to and from this city, continue to increase as they have of late, more accommodation in the shape of wharves and sheds will be required. At present the facilities for handling goods are too limited.

It looks as if the long delayed improvements at the mouth of the Fraser were to be prosecuted at last. Mr. T. F. Sinclair is preparing the buttresses of which there will be a half a dozen, each 100 feet in length. With those added to those of last year it is supposed the river will be diverted into a new channel. Capt. Grant is of the opinion that in less than two years the water in the new channel will be deep enough to float large sea going vessels at any stage of the tide.

The Yacht Race.

The race between the yachts Ada and Frolic is in progress as we go to press. The Frolic when last seen was a short distance ahead, but as the wind is light the race will not be sailed within the limit of three hours.

Competent Crews.

The Labor Congress at its late sessions in Hamilton decided to petition the Dominion Government to pass a law compelling vessels to carry competent crews, and also making the inspection of hulls and rigging compulsory and to prevent overloading. The resolution was somewhat superfluous, as an Act is already in force covering the ground.

The Nicola Company.

The Nicola Mining Company will thoroughly prospect their mine, and for that purpose will sink four shafts one hundred feet deep and tunnel from the bottom of each a distance of one hundred feet in both directions along the vein. This will determine the extent of the ledge, after which buildings and machinery will be erected if the result proves satisfactory.

Smoke "Creme de la Creme" Cigars.

A Prominent Australian.

The Hon. John Forrest, Minister of Public Works for West Australia, is en route for this city from the east, accompanied by his wife. Mr. Forrest represented his government at the Colonial Conference held in London some time ago, and is returning home by way of Victoria and San Francisco, thus making a voyage around the world.

Really! The Creme de la Creme.

Important.

The goods damaged by water in consequence of the fire in the Arcade building will be sold at private sale commencing on Tuesday at Spencer's Arcade. Brussels Carpets, Tapestry Carpet, Felt and Hemp Carpet, Rope Matting, Kidderminster and Three-ply Carpets, Hearthrugs, Mats.

Dominion Lands.

An order-in-council has been passed under the provisions of the "Act respecting certain public lands in British Columbia," approving of regulations in the survey, administration and disposal of Dominion lands within the forty-mile railway belt in the Province of British Columbia replacing the regulations for the same purpose adopted by an order-in-council dated 20th April, 1885, and amended by order-in-council, 16th July, 1885, and 12th April, 1886, respectively, which expired on the 1st of July last.

Tony Cigars.

Another Reduction.

The C. P. R. announces a second reduction in rates on potatoes to Winnipeg and Manitoba shippers equal to 7c. per 100 lbs. From Winnipeg to Toronto or Montreal on potatoes in sacks, car loads of 30,000 lbs or over, the rate is 33½c. per 100 lbs. The highest rate quoted is from Broadview some 350 miles west of Winnipeg, which is 36c. The distance to the points named to the east ranges close upon 2000 miles. The concession is regarded as a very fair one.

Black and Tan Cigars.

The Next Attraction.

Emerson's minstrels, headed by the prince of minstrels, Billy Emerson, will arrive by the Mexico on Monday and open at the Victoria Theatre on Tuesday. Speaking of Emerson, the Los Angeles Herald says: He is the finest mimic, he is the finest singer, he is the finest dancer, he is the handsomest man, we have ever seen on the minstrel stage. Besides Emerson the company includes Pete Mack, Billy Chase, Jack Talbot, Gus Mills and a host of other well known burnt cork artists. Those who wish a genuine treat will not fail to attend. Secure your seat early and avoid the rush.

Gladstone Cigars.

Cardinal Gibbons.

This eminent dignitary of the Roman Catholic church will reach Portland to-day, Friday. He is the highest in rank in the hierarchy of the church in the United States. He is accompanied by a large number of bishops and priests of the church. His Eminence will remain a few days in Portland. Archbishop Rierdon, of San Francisco, is on his way overland to meet the Cardinal and to participate in the ceremonies of investing Archbishop Gross with the pallium. Cardinal Gibbons is a great man intellectually, well worthy in every attribute to be the head of his church in the United States. He is the first Cardinal to set foot on the Pacific coast, and as such is meeting with a fitting reception everywhere.

The Canadian Regiment.

The tattered remains of the colors of the Hundredth Regiment have been received by the State Department at Ottawa from India.

A Heavy Steal.

The Ontario Wagon Shop, at the corner of Broad and Johnson streets, is minus an anvil weighing 160 pounds, which some sneak thief carried away from the sidewalk in front of the shop.

Ring the Bell.

Thomas Ellis was arrested to-day for attempting to rob the till at the Albion Hotel on Herald street. He opened the drawer, which was connected with a bell, and was caught in the net by the proprietor.

Outgoing Passengers.

The Geo W Elder, which sailed at noon for San Francisco, took the following passengers from this city: A Y Trask, Dr F Wrightson, W H Norman, W G Mather, C Coldwell, Mrs Van Horton, Mrs Hirshberg, Allen Custer, W H Wells, A McPetrie, Mrs R Munsell and son, H W Bonson, E M Howe, I G Porteous, T C Crosby, E H Blakey, and twenty-five in the steerage.

Decoration Day.

According to arrangement, the members of the I. O. O. F., in this city will meet at Odd Fellows' hall, Douglas street, to-morrow morning at 10:30 o'clock, and proceed to the Pandora street Presbyterian Church, where the Rev. D. Fraser, M. A., will deliver an appropriate discourse. At 1:30 p. m. the members will re-assemble at the hall and proceed to the cemeteries, for the purpose of decorating the graves of deceased brethren. Sisters of Rebekah are also invited to be present on both occasions.

Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever is cured in from one to three simple applications made at home. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on receipt of stamp, by A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 King street West, Toronto, Canada.—Christian Standard. *

Going Back to China.

The Port Victor on her outward trip to-day carried away 154 Chinese, 75 of whom were from Vancouver, they having reached that point from the Sound ports and 79 from Victoria. In addition to these there are 30 cabin passengers, being the full complement the steamer can carry. Her cargo consists of flour, cotton pieces, lumber, in the rough and manufactured, and general merchandise. Messrs. Brown & Heathcote, with a staff of clerks were kept working like beavers this forenoon making out tickets and bills of lading. The receipts for the Chinese passengers will be in the neighborhood of $4,000.

Wrongfully Accused.

In South Saanich considerable bad blood has lately been engendered amongst neighbors in consequence of the disappearance of a valuable cow. One neighbor had been publicly charged with having killed the animal. Notwithstanding all remonstrances and protestations on his part the charge was repeated. It now appears the cow strayed from her usual pasture field for another one some distance away. A few days since she turned up all right. Now it is reported that legal proceedings are to be instituted by the party wrongfully accused against his neighbor for so grossly maligning his character. It is another case illustrating the necessity for great caution ere making so rash a charge as that of stealing and killing cattle not one's own.

Ambitious John Chinamen.

In British Columbia one of the complaints against John Chinaman is that he will not become a citizen and take his place in building up and developing its resources in a proper manner, as well as his utter neglect of public affairs. That cannot be said of Wing You, who is a naturalized citizen of Baltimore, Md., and a candidate for Councilman of the 15th Ward in that city. Wing You is an industrious laundryman. When the delegation waited upon him and asked him to run for office he accepted the honor with enthusiasm. He is making an active campaign and is ably supported by One Lung, Ling Sing, Hop Sing, Hong Cong, Hop Lee and I See. Wing You has promised, if elected, to speak on every question brought before the City Council. He recently exclaimed: "Me likee runee! Me win, you bettee. Melican man up spoutee!"

The Liberal Leader.

Mr. J. D. Edgar a few days since addressed a meeting of his constituents in West Ontario. During the course of his remarks in reference to the leadership of the opposition he said: The selection that we made was of one whose preeminent powers as an orator have drawn praises from opponents as well as friends, the Hon. Wilfred Laurier—(applause)—who was chosen by the unanimous vote of the party. I may say this, I think, without telling secrets out of school, that Mr. Laurier was proposed by Sir Richard Cartwright and seconded by the Hon. Mr. Mills, and the Liberal leaders from all the provinces cordially supported the choice, with one exception, and that was the leader from Quebec, Mr. Laurier himself. He did not want it. It was forced upon him. The position sought him and not he the position—as should be the case in any of these high and responsible positions.

Imported Stock.

A few days since mention was made in these columns of the fact that Messrs. Steve & Son, of Lulu Island, had a consignment of thoroughbred Holsteins on the way from the east. The stock arrived a few days since. It consists of 33 head and embraces cows, heifers and bulls. The selection was made from the herd of Messrs. Cook & Co., Stormont Co., Ont. They came through over the C.P.R. in excellent condition. They are all highbred full pedigreed animals, and are in splendid form throughout. Messrs. Steve are to be congratulated on their enterprise. This is the largest importation of livestock yet made by any one individual or firm.

We learn that Mr. John Kirkland, of Ladner's Landing, and Mr. Benson, of Surrey, both of whom are at present in the east, intend bringing out a car load or two of short-horns, Herefords and Devons, as well as Galloways, sheep and pigs. In a few years it is quite possible that British Columbia will become equally famous for stock-breeding as she is for her fisheries, her minerals and her timber. The day of the scrubs appears to be doomed. The late Dr. Tolmie clearly foresaw this, and during his lifetime nobly performed his part in introducing a better class of animals into the country. Already his works, in this respect, doth follow him.

English Window Glass, 16 oz., all sizes; also Stained and Enamelled Glass, at Muirhead and Mann's Sash and Door Factory.

A LIGHT PENALTY.

The Playing Card Smugglers Get Off Easily.

At the police court to-day the case against Morris Sweeney and Joseph Martin, two employees on board the Geo. E. Starr, was disposed of in a manner not altogether unsatisfactory to the prisoners. They were accused of smuggling playing cards, and the evidence of Mr. R. Hunter, sub-collector, showed that they were detected when conveying a parcel of cards under each arm from the steamer. The cards were afterwards found in a place on Johnson street. Martin was fined $50, payable in fourteen days, he being admitted to bail on his own recognizance. Sweeney, who was an abettor of the crime, was discharged. The result will not be satisfactory to the customs officials, and may possibly be discussed by the Board of Trade, which just now is considering smuggling operations generally, with a view to their stoppage.

Obit.

Another old and well-known pioneer has crossed the divide. Mrs. Mary Anne Rowebottom passed peacefully away in this city on Wednesday morning in the 57th year of her age. Her husband belonged to the Sappers and Miners and died by accident in Cariboo many years ago. She had been a resident of the province for 23 years.

The Eureka Mine.

Steps are now being taken by the proprietors of the Eureka Mine, near Hope, to have it operated and developed. This is one of the most promising mining properties in the country. It is known to be rich in silver quartz, lead and galena. Its convenience to both rail and water communication makes it easy of operation. At a meeting of the shareholders held a few days since the following were elected office bearers for the current year: His Honor Lieut Gov Nelson, President. Directors—Messrs R P Rithet, I Oppenheimer, W Dalby, G W Haynes, J Van Bremer and P W Sweet. Mr G A Sargison is secretary of the company.

let that cold of yours run on. You think it is a light thing. But it may run into catarrh. Or into pneumonia. Or consumption.

Catarrh is disgusting. Pneumonia is dangerous. Consumption is death itself.

The breathing apparatus must be kept healthy and clear of all obstructions and offensive matter. Otherwise there is trouble ahead.

All the diseases of these parts, head, nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, can be delightfully and entirely cured by the use of Boschee's German Syrup. If you don't know this already, thousands and thousands of people can tell you. They have been cured by it, and "know how it is, themselves." Bottle only 75 cents. Ask any druggist. *

Manitoba's Overflowing Cup.

At the harvest home festival at All Saints' church last week, in Winnipeg, Rural Deacon Fortin, who visited Victoria a few weeks since, preached the sermon in the course of which he said: "It is certainly to be regretted that obstacles have been thrown in the path of railway development in this province. It is unfortunate that the fervent and reasonable wish of the whole people should be thwarted, especially after such a long and patient waiting for relief. This is undoubtedly the only bitter drop in the cup of happiness, this is the only discordant note in the grand sympony which this autumn ascends to Almighty God from one end of the province to the other." He urged his hearers strongly to never submit to monopoly.

Commendable.

Dr. Geo. L. Milne, an active member of the city school board, yesterday afternoon delivered the first of a series of [illegible] to the pupils of the high school. In addition to the teachers there were present Supt. Pope and his assistant, Mr. Wilson. The doctor dwelt at considerable length on the importance of the study of hygiene; the evils arising from a want of proper sanitary arrangements, the relation of the physician to the study of hygiene; the absence of authentic data relative to this country's drainage and sanitary regulations prevented the speaker from giving such statistics as he wished relative to its importance. He divided hygiene into three sections; the first being causes of disease; second, personal hygiene; and the third, public hygiene. The remarks of the doctor were attentively listened to by the pupils. Another lecture will shortly follow.

Chamberlain and the Fisheries.

The London correspondent of the Toronto Globe on the 1st inst., cabled that the London journals, without exception, commend the judiciousness of Mr. Chamberlain's references last night to the Fisheries Commission. The Times says: "It is quite certain that Mr. Chamberlain is not the man to stand by the letter of the law against the reasonable claims of our American kinsfolk, but nevertheless Britain is bound to act on behalf of the Canadians with the most careful consideration of their interests. It is clear that Mr. Chamberlain is fully alive to his duty in this respect." The Times assumes that the mission will be crowned with success. The Daily News and other Liberal papers declare that it was quite unnecessary for Mr. Chamberlain to defend his acceptance of so important a charge, seeing there is a general agreement as to his fitness for the post. The Chronicle asserts that failing John Bright, Lord Salisbury could not select a better agent to conciliate American prejudices against Canada.

Fruit from the Interior.

Mr. James G. Murray, from Spence's Bridge, reached the city last night. He brought over with him from the orchard and vinery of Mr. John Murray a quantity of apples of various varieties, grapes and melons. The apples are rich in flavor and pleasant to the palate. They are of the Ben Davis and Pewaukee and Duchess of Oldenburg variety; large, handsome and perfectly sound. The grapes, if anything are sweeter and more palatable than is the imported articles. They are not so large, but for that they make up in yield and quality. They are the Concord and the Wilder varieties, and are reported to be prolific yielders. The melons were large and of excellent quality, weighing somewhere in the neighborhood of 20 lbs. Mr. Murray's garden produces gooseberries, black and red currants and such like small fruits in great abundance. In plums, cherries, pears, etc., his trees are heavily loaded in their season. Mr. Murray's orchard and premises are so conveniently located to the line of railway that excellent facilities exist for shipping fruit to all points east, saving considerable in the cost of handling. It is very evident that the interior, as well as the coast, of the province is adapted to fruit culture.

The Olympian.

The steamer Olympian left Portland to-day for Victoria, but was compelled to return to Astoria, being unable to cross the bar. She will arrive here in a day or two, and go on the Victoria-Sound route, making daily trips. The Starr and North Pacific will be withdrawn.

"The Duchess."

Such is the title of a new novel, the 1072nd of the series being published by the John W. Lovell Company, 14 and 16 Vesey street, New York. The author wrote "Molly Bawn," "Phyllis," "Lady Branksmere," and other equally popular works. "The Duchess" is to be had at the bookstore of Messrs. J. B. Ferguson & Co., Government street. It is a very readable work, and well worth the price asked for it.

Funeral.

The funeral of Emma Brown took place this afternoon from Capt. Irving's residence. Rev. Donald Fraser read the impressive burial service at the residence, after which the remains were conveyed to Ross Bay cemetery. A large quantity of floral offerings covered the casket. The C. P. N. Co's offices remained closed during the funeral and flags on the steamers were at half-mast. The deceased was a great favorite with Capt. Irving's family, and her sudden demise is deeply regretted. The following young men were pall-bearers: P. Steele, jr., F. J. Stephens, W. Marvin, C. Dickenson, W. Munro and K. Munro.

Matinee.

Mr. A. J. Langley exhibited a number of oxyhydrogen views at the Victoria Theatre this afternoon. A large number of ladies and children attended the matinee which was given for the benefit of the Protestant Orphans' Home. Amongst the views exhibited were Victoria, the C. P. R. to the Rockies, the Devil's Dance at Metlakahtla, an eruption of Mount Vesuvius, and a number of other interesting places. Mr. R. Maynard, the enterprising photographer, produced the views and received well-deserved applause from the audience. The entertainment will be repeated in a short time.

Good for Canadian Cheese.

At the Frome Somersetshere dairy show last week, Ontario cheese, imported by Price & Parker, Bristol, was highly commended by the judges in the Jubilee class. The London Times points out that as fifty lots of West of England cheese were unnoticed, the judges' commendation of the Ontario product bears out the contention that while the very finest Somerset cheddars are not to be beaten anywhere, Canadian cheese is running the secondary qualities very close. Another lot of Canadian cheese was also highly recommended.

An Unhappy Lot.

The Chinamen who made an effort to cross the border near Whatcom are in an unfortunate position. They are being driven back into British Columbia. They are without certificates and money wherewith to pay the $50 entrance fee. The problem is, what is best to be done with them. They will not be allowed to remain in the United States, nor will they be allowed to enter Canada. They should provide themselves with the wings of a dove and hie them to some country where the Mongolian is not legislated against.

The Flagship's Band.

The last open air concert was given at the government buildings this afternoon. It is suggested that a souvenir be presented to the leader, Mr. Agius, and the band which has done so much, gratuitously, to make our park attractive during the summer months.
